

Moms and Dads, does your child suffer from obsessive compulsive hoarding?

Participate in Research

Researchers at the Children's Hospital of Michigan and Wayne State University need your help. They are conducting a study, looking for kids 5 to 19 years old with or without obsessive compulsive hoarding. The study uses MRI and genetic samples to learn more about the brain. To see if your child is eligible to participate, visit psychiatry.med.wayne.edu or call 313-745-4645.

Financial compensation will be provided to those who qualify.
